

Amy,

HIIII GIRLY POPPPPP!!!! Before I start this I want to say that if you ever need anything I am here for you and I always will be. I know you've been in pain recently and that you've also been very tired, and I hope you can have some time to yourself to relax and just have you time, but Amy I mean it when I say if there's anything I can do for you, I'll do it, no matter what. Now sitting here trying to think of the theme of this letter was hard because throughout the week I had so many good ideas, and of course I forgot some, but I finally pieced it together. See girly pop I always say how I'm proud of you and how I feel lucky to have you in my life, but I feel I should tell you why since words are just words and it's the story and meaning behind them that make those words special. So here goes nothing!!

When we met we were completely different people than who we are today and I am so pussy popping proud of us, more so you. When we met I was some super wild kid who just wanted a friend and said the most random shit. You were a strong women who was the nicest person you'd ever meet, the most supportive, and just the most down to earth person ever. When we met we became friends and talked and I always loved how you always said the right things and you've always supported me no matter what. Over time of knowing you I got to see you grow and become an even greater women than you originally were. Here are some of my top few things I am proud of you for:

1) Getting the mailroom job, I remember you telling me that you wanted to work in the library because it was an easy and chill job. I also remember you also mentioned the mailroom and how you ended up getting it a few days later I was so happy and proud of you. I remember trying to find out a schedule for you with your classes, the mailroom, and the dining hall. Then seeing you like the job was amazing too because you were enjoying what you did.

2) Getting pearl and you driver's license. July 6th, 2021. I was at the airport texting you that I had a big day and you kept saying that you also had a big day, then BOOM you told me. Amy, I remember getting so happy and I wanted to scream for you because I was so fucking excited for you. THEN you got pearl, I remember trying to help you find a car, but you were just girl bossing so hard and you got her all on your own and I was so proud of you. You got her, went to the DMV, and did all of that on your own.

3) Getting to be an HA anddddddd doing the best at it. I know that school was a very unknow subject and was scary. Amy I know you're the strongest person ever and that you can take a challenge and make it into something amazing. I know sometimes its hard but you always find a way and that alone makes me proud of you. When you told me that you were going to be a HA I was happy for you because I know you're so creative and that you would be giving as fuck. Seeing all the work that you out into being an HA, cutting everything out, making the theme so giving, and making sure the hall hangouts were well planned as well. All that you've done this semester has not gone unnoticed. Your decorations and attention to your residents' birthdays and everything is just such a great touch and it shoes that you care so much. Being an HA and doing so good in school I am so proud of you because you took something that was a challenge, and you fucking kicked its ass, and you do every day. You're doing so good in school and as an HA, preschool assistant, mailroom assistant, and a student coordinator. Pussy Popping Proud

Amy, no matter what you do I will be proud of you, and I will always support you. You always try your hardest and give everything your all. I am proud of everything you've done over the time I've known you. You improve everyday and you always make things work, you motivate me to do better myself and I cannot thank you enough. You make me feel like the luckiest person in the world for knowing you because you just have that vibe to make everything better and you fucking help so much. I love you girly pop and I am always pussy popping proud of you and I will always support you no matter what. Keep popping pussy and keep kicking ass!!

Love,

Edwardo